WD

Gary,

I haven't heard back from you yet regarding my last email, but wanted to update you on one item, and inquire as to a few others. The update is first, and is slightly longer than anticipated, but I wanted to be thorough in explaining the linking issue. My questions follow, beginning below the pasted html code.

First, an update. The linked/framed internet domains owned by your client which display my client's website have been restored to their original state and functionality intended by your client. My client and his IT professional have no way to access or modify the actual linking domains owned by your client, but had placed code on my client's website to redirect links from your client's domains to a Google search page instead. That code has been removed from my client's site, and now if you visit any of your client's domains below, you will see that they contain my client's information and appear to be my client's websites. I do not know if this is some attempt to try and add support to your client's fraudulent application for my client's Magnovo trademark, or if it has been set up by your client for some other reason, but I think it would be best for everyone if these Iframes or links were removed from your client's domains, and your client populated his domains with his own TLI information instead.

<http://bicycleteambuilding.org/>

The "linking information" or framing is done as follows. Your client's domains have a very simple "frame" on each domain's root page which loads my client's website into it. The code is pasted below from your client's bicycleteambuilding.org domain, and my comments are in red.

```
<!DOCTYPE HTML PUBLIC "-//W3C//DTD HTML 4.01//EN"
```

```

```

```

```

```
<head>
```

```
<title>bicycleteambuilding.org</title> THIS IS YOUR CLIENT'S DOMAIN CONTAINING
THIS CODE
```

```
</head>
```

```
<frameset rows="100%,*" border="0">
```

```
<frame src="http://bicycle-team-building-events.com" frameborder="0" /> THIS IS WHAT
LINKS TO MY CLIENT'S WEBSITE
```

```
<frame frameborder="0" noresize />
```

```
</frameset>
```

Second, a few quick questions.

-Regarding the proposed depositions of Colette Johnston and Connie Timpson, have you obtained service on both, and are both still scheduled to take place next week? Given the short time frame and uncertainty, we're trying to make sure we have made any needed arrangements.

-Regarding your client's document production, are there still additional documents to be produced on a rolling basis, or has your client already provided all responsive documents to our requests?

-Regarding the Customer Lists, please let me know when we can mutually exchange them, pursuant to the Protective Order, Attorneys' Eyes Only. We had discussed this previously, and I think it should be pretty quick and easy to effectuate an exchange.

-Finally, are you planning to appear as counsel of record on behalf of your client for the Trademark Opposition proceeding for MAGNOVO and/or the Trademark Cancellation proceeding for BUILD-A-BIKE? If so, we would be happy to forward you copies of the documents we have already filed in either or both of these matters, as applicable.

I appreciate open lines of communication, and I hope we can resolve as many issues as possible as amicably as possible.

Thanks,

Will Doss
